School Bells To Call Pupils Back To Classrooms Monday

School bells will start their daily call Monday morning for pupils in both public and parochial schools.

LaRue and Campbell county schools will also reopen for fall classes on Monday. Opening of the two schools was delayed from last week due to the redecorating work at the buildings being incomplete. All other county schools opened Sept. 2.

Pupils Registered

Registration of St. Mary students was held earlier in the week with a total of 452 students enrolled to date. A total of 322 students are in the elementary grades, 130 in high school. Sister Gabrielle, school superior, announced 51 pupils will enter the first grade this year, making one of the largest classes in recent years. Classes will start Monday morning immediately following the 8 o'clock daily mass.

Assignment of the city schools' teaching staff was announced yesterday by Supt. Holt.

City Schools

City schools will report for classes on Monday at 1:15 p. m. to receive their assignments. A general meeting of all teachers will be held at Harding High school at 9 a. m. Monday followed by meetings of the faculty of individual buildings.

Hours after the opening day will be from 9 a. m. to noon and 1:20 p. m. to 4 p. m. for all elementary grades. Hours for junior and senior students will be 8:45 a. m. to noon. Afternoon classes will be assigned individually.

Schedule at Harding

Opening classes for the new school year at Harding High school will be held Monday afternoon, with doors of the school scheduled to open at 1:15, A. C. May, principal of Harding, announced today.

Seniors are being asked to report to the Church street entrance of the school, juniors to the east entrance, and sophomores to the two north doors. At each of the doors, boys will be present to distribute home room lists indicating to which room each pupil has been assigned. The lists will enable the pupils to find out exactly where he is to go.

Pupils are to remain outside the building until the doors open at 1:15, and then are to go immediately to their respective home room. Following this, announcements will be made over the public address system, and registrations will be completed.

The regular schedule will then be started, and as many classes as possible will be held until 4 o'clock. At each of the classes, the roll will be checked, text books will be distributed, and assignments will be made for Tuesday.

Motorists Urged To Help Protect Children's Lives

"Please be careful of the children."

This was the plea to motorists today of Supt. E. E. Holt as final preparations were made for opening school Monday. He especially asked that a careful watch be kept between 1 p. m. and 1:15 when pupils will be on their way to first classes. A change in plans this year has pupils report at 1:15 p. m. opening day instead of 9 a. m. as has been customary.

Included in Mr. Holt's plea was a word of caution to motorists to be on the lookout for 625 first graders who will be going to school for the first time.

MOTHER APPEALS RULING HER SON DIED IN ACTION

Claims Army Records Err in Identification of Body.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—Mrs. Udya Podoloff of New Haven, Conn., today planned an appeal to Secretary of War Royall from the Army's ruling that her son, Pvt. Stephen C. Lautenbach, was killed in action in France in the fall of 1944.

Insisting that the body buried as that of her son was another man and that she saw the son in a prisoner of war photograph taken four months later, Mrs. Podoloff has been trying for two and a half years to persuade the Army to carry on a search for him.

Yesterday the Army showed Theodore I. Koskoff, Mrs. Podoloff's attorney, the man it says was the soldier in the picture. He is Leslie H. Woolf of Watertown, N. Y.

Koskoff issued a statement last night saying it makes no difference who was in the photograph. "Mrs. Podoloff," he said, "has proved through scientific evidence that the boy in grave 123 (in the Army cemetery overseas) could not possibly be that of her son."

He said the body in the grave was nearly three inches taller than Mrs. Podoloff's son, had black hair instead of brown, different dental work and different scars.

3,000 CATTLE DIE IN RAGING PRAIRIE FIRE

Toll in South Dakota Blaze, Affecting 500 Square Miles, May Go Higher.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

PIERRE, S. D., Sept. 6—Weary fire fighters returned to the fight northwest of here today as a new prairie fire was reported on the heels of yesterday's vast blaze which burned over an estimated 500 to 600 square miles in five central South Dakota counties.

• • •

By The Associated Press

PIERRE, S. D., Sept. 6 — At least 3,000 head of cattle were destroyed by a prairie fire that raged over more than 500 square miles of farms and ranches, fields and pastures in central South Dakota before being brought under control early today.

Officials feared the number of cattle already known to be lost would be only a fraction of the final total. An estimated 25,000 head were being fed on the 200 ranches and farms within the stricken area.

Considering possible loss in hay and other feed, pasturage, homes and other buildings, they described the fire as the greatest single disaster to hit the section since the drought. Burned out communications lines made exact loss estimates impossible.

Fight for 12 Hours

For more than 12-hours a 300-man army of volunteer fire fighters fought the fire with wet sacks, water hauled in by tank trucks, plows to cut protective furrows, and backfires.

Early reports told of no loss of human life, and of only four homes definitely known to have been burned.

Scores of persons probably owed their lives to members of the motor patrol who raced through the land ahead of the fire, warning settlers to evacuate.

Sparks Blamed

The fire started at two spots several miles apart about 40 miles east of Pierre. Sparks from a combine were blamed for one blaze, a cigar for the other.

Fanned by a southwest wind, the fire spread northward over a thinly settled section from 20 to 35 miles along a line 27 miles long.

Late in the day the wind shifted, driving the flames back toward Holabird, Harrold and Highmore, the three U. S. highway villages near where they began. The villages have combined population of about 2,000.

Meat Buying Falls Sharply

Butcher Shops Report Business Off as U.S. Housewives Tighten Purse Strings.

By The United Press

Butcher shops across the nation reported today that business had dropped off sharply because housewives, beset by rising food prices, had tightened their purse strings.

A check of representative cities showed buyer resistance was gaining momentum. Some cities reported retail meat volume had dropped off as much as 35 per cent.

"Customers are buying in dollars instead of in pounds of meat," Charles H. Bromann, executive secretary of the Associated Food Dealers of Chicago, said.

"Housewives have a certain amount of money and find out how much meat they can buy with it. They don't step up to the counter and ask for a certain amount of meat anymore," he said.

Off 25 Per Cent

Bromann said meat volume was off as much as 25 per cent. He said Chicago retailers are absorbing some of the price increases and "taking a beating" because they are afraid they might lose customers if they pass the increases on to the housewives.

He said he couldn't see why people stopped buying meat. The price is "admittedly high," he said, but claimed it "hasn't risen any more than prices on a lot of other products."

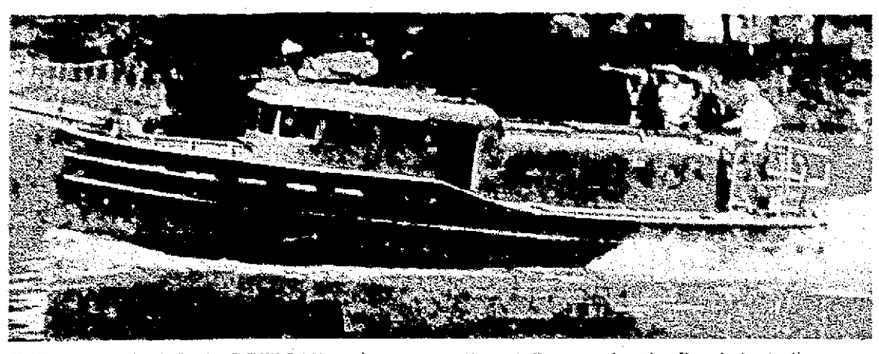

In New York, Samuel Morganroth, counsel for the New York State Association of Retail Meat Dealers, said "business in our stores is off from 25 to 35 per cent." He said stores had the same number of customers, but the customers bought less meat.

"They just can't afford it," he said.

Meanwhile, in New York, Market Commissioner Eugene G. Schulz urged strong consumer resistance to high prices.

Lightning Strikes Several Places in Severe Storm

THE JET-PROPELLED FIREBOAT under construction at Prospect for the Royal Australian navy is shown above undergoing tests on the Scioto river. The boat, a 30-foot, 6-inch craft weighing 17 tons, is to be used by the Australians in fire patrol work at the port of Freemantle on the extreme west coast of the continent. Powered by four 100-horsepower, six-cylinder marine engines, the boat will throw 4,000 gallons of water a minute. The engines, each one attached to a turbine-type pump, also provide water for the two jets which propel the boat.

The craft is being built by the Hanley Engineering Service, headed by Keenan Hanley, only builder of jet boats. One hundred and three jet propelled craft were built by Hanley for the U. S. Coast Guard in the early years of World War II.

V.F.W. URGED 'NOT TO SLEEP'

Military Alertness for America Recommended by Marine Chief.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6—Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, commandant of the U. S. Marine corps, urged the Veterans of Foreign Wars today not "to stack arms and go to sleep" and recommended establishment of an industrial plan "to walk hand in hand with military research and developments."

"In past years some of our manufacturers of military equipment might have closed down completely but for the order of foreign governments," the Marine leader told the group's annual convention.

"This is not a proper status for the arsenal of democracy," he added.

Makes Recommendations

In three other recommendations, he asked:

▶A force of regular servicemen "large enough for a margin of safety."

▶Strong reserves, supported in their home communities.

▶Stockpiles of necessary materials "which were too little and too late until World War II was almost lost."

Gen. Vandegrift asserted the measures were "immediate requirements" and said they represented a "preparation for peace."

His address followed adoption by the V.F.W. yesterday of a resolution asking congress to make it unlawful for any group to sponsor talks similar to those delivered by former Vice President Henry A. Wallace during his European tour early this year.

Speeches Called "Insult"

The measure said "the speeches against the foreign policy of the United States" were "an insult to the citizens of the United States."

The group also adopted a resolution identical with one approved at the V.F.W. encampment last year in Boston which asked for federal bonuses up to $5,000 for World War II soldiers.

In addition, the veterans passed measures calling for a national veterans cemetery in each state, pensions for World War I Veterans similar to those given Spanish-American ex-soldiers, federal homesteading for Alaska, a drive against income tax evaders and a pay boost for internal revenue agents.

The convention endorsed Secretary of State Marshall for his work at the Big Four ministers meeting in Moscow and asked that use of the word "veteran" be restricted to those who have served in the armed services (as distinguished from the merchant marine).

Truman Has Close Call As Car Skids

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 6—President Truman narrowly escaped a possible serious mishap today when his automobile skidded during a ride up a muddy, clay mountain road.

The big black open limousine became mired in mud and its left rear wheel went over a retaining wall curb, where it came to a stop on a precipitous cliff, with about two feet to spare.

The President, none the worse for his experience, laughingly invited reporters and photographers to help push when 20 officers put their shoulders behind the machine to free it.

HARDING WINS GRID PRACTICE TILT, 48-6

Prexies Lambast Upper Arlington in Football Preview.

Harding's football team, scrimmaging against Upper Arlington at Harding stadium this morning, outscored the visitors, 48-6, by an unofficial count. Fullback Clarence Smith scored four of the Presidents' touchdowns.

All members of the Harding squad saw action in the practice, which lasted more than an hour. Harding had a definite weight advantage over Arlington and exhibited speed, although the turf was soggy. There was an average amount of fumbling on each side.

Fans attending were impressed by the hustle of the locals and many left with the opinion that the team will hold its own this season.

As it was practice the results do not count toward either team's record. The scrimmage could, however, be counted as a preview of the coming season and was held so that each team would gain experience for its first game.

Harding coaching staff cautioned local fans not to be too elated over the results of today's game, however. They pointed out that Upper Arlington is fielding a green and very light team this year, having lost almost the entire 1946 varsity.

They praised Harding's blocking and tackling but noted that the local pass defense was weak.

RAILWAY HEAD DEFENDS LINE

C. & O's Young Says Charge His Freights Are Slow Is "Smoke Screen."

By The Associated Press

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 6—Railroad Executive Robert R. Young today answered an office of defense transportation criticism of slow freight on his Chesapeake and Ohio line by quoting what he said was a congressional charge that the interstate commission is controlled by railroad interests of the south and west "to the injury of everyone."

Young, chairman of the C. and O., linked the ODT and the ICC by saying that membership in both is held by ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson who charged yesterday that the C. and O. freight speeds are less than the western roads which Young criticized in newspaper advertisements.

"Defends Responsible Roads"

Asserting in a statement that "Mr. Johnson defends the roads responsible for the shortage of boxcars * * * roads that operate on time schedules identical to the minute though they vary in distance as much as 425 miles," Young continued:

"This is a strange position for Mr. Johnson to take with a member of congress when Mr. Johnson is also a member of the interstate commerce commission * * *

"It is that commission, members of which so long opposed the C. and O. in the establish-

RAIN DELUGE SWEEPS CITY

Light Service Disrupted at Some Points, Including Hospital and Erie Yards.

Marion and vicinity escaped serious storm damage late yesterday when a severe electrical storm accompanied by heavy rainfall and high winds hit this area during the rush hours from 5 to 6 p. m.

Lightning striking in several scattered locations throughout the city disrupted electrical power service temporarily at several places including City hospital, the Erie railroad yards and residential areas in the southern and western sections of the city.

Measured rainfall was 1.09 inches during the 24 hour period from 8 a. m. yesterday, most of which fell during the peak of the storm and later last evening. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 81 with a minimum of 64 against a high of 89 and a low of 59 a year ago. The weather bureau forecast says partly cloudy and a little warmer for today and Sunday, clear and cool tonight.

The state highway patrol reported its radio went out of operation shortly after 7 p. m. and still was out this morning. The Marion Rural Electric association office reported calls from Upper Sandusky, Cardington and the Prospect-Green Camp areas where lightning had hit transformers on lines supplying rural consumers. Service in these areas was reported out about three hours. Calls are still coming in today, REA officials said.

Emergency Lights Used

In the city, the emergency lighting system at City hospital was placed in service for a 30-minute period starting about 5:30 p. m. when the power went off. No emergency cases were in the hospital at the time however and no patients in survery when electrical service was interrupted.

Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt reported two fire runs occasioned by the storm, one of which was false. At 5:51 p. m. engine companies 2 and 4 from Central and No. 2 stations were called to the home of Ward Hines of 778 Markle avenue. A bolt of lightning had knocked a hole through the chimney and followed down through the house. Mr. Hines was taking a bath at the time and received a severe electrical shock. Damages from the lightning was estimated at $50 by Chief Sifritt.

The second call came about ten minutes later during the peak of the storm when pedestrians observing smoke apparently coming out of the Bentz building at South Main and Church streets, turned in an alarm. Engines 1, 2, 3 and 4 responded. Chief Sifritt reported an apartment dweller had been burning papers and the smoke blowing down into the street gave appearance of a fire. At least six electrical power service calls were transferred to the Ohio Public Service Co., the chief said.

OPS Reports Damage

Harold Grigsby, OPS manager here reported power system damage as scattered, some occasioned by the high winds accompanying the storm and other by lightning. Metering equipment and transformers were hardest hit by lightning, he said.

Service in most areas was maintained throughout the storm. Automatic circuit breakers, cutting back in almost instantly after lightning strikes, protect system lines except when severe damage is incurred, Mr. Grigsby reported. Areas where service was interrupted included the City hospital, the Erie yards and portions in the southern part of the city. Crews were out last night replacing lines that were blown down and completing other service repairs.

A line dropped across an automobile owned by Mrs. Edna Grates, 546 Lee street during the storm, burning several holes through the hood and front fender. The car was unoccupied at the time, being parked at the curb at the residence. Mrs. Grates had but a few moments before gotten out of the car.

City Engineer Tom S. Cathers reported few calls for service during the storm. No extra city street department crews were called out as few limbs and trees were reported down.

Water was high at several spots in the city, but no flooded basements were reported. Surface water backed up in the streets at Center and Leader streets, Olney avenue at the Borden Dairy plant, at Blaine and Windsor avenues

An event of unusual interest to industrial groups, business men and churchmen alike will be the visit of R. G. LeTourneau widely known industrialist and churchman to Marion for a series of addresses on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 27 and 28. For several months the Marion Kiwanis club has been making plans to bring this industrial wizard and Christian business man to Marion for a public appearance, and the detailed arrangements for his coming have now been completed. Mr. LeTourneau will arrive in the city in his own airplane on Sept. 27 and speak at 8 p. m. at the Garfield park chautauqua pavilion under the auspices of the Kiwanis club. Invitations are being extended to all the local service clubs and neighboring Kiwanis clubs, industrial groups in the city and the general public to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this dynamic personality. He will remain in the city over Sunday and speak on Sunday morning at the Trinity Baptist church, and again on Sunday afternoon at the chautauqua pavilion under the auspices of the Marion County Ministerial association.

Magazine articles describing the amazing career of this millionaire industrialist have appeared in national publications. He is a self-taught mechanical genius who began life under very humble circumstances and has pioneered in developing earth-moving machinery. His four large manufacturing plants in the United States one in England, and one in Australia now build half of all the earth-moving machinery produced in the world. He is constantly in demand as a public speaker and delivers an average of 500 addresses a year in churches, over the radio, and at public gatherings of all kinds. He has three airplanes which he uses on long and short trips about the country visiting his plants and keeping his speaking engagements, usually flying about 20,000 miles a month.

Mr. LeTourneau is a deeply religious man who applies Christian principles in the operation of his forty million-dollar-a-year business as well as his personal daily living. According to his own testimony there are two things he likes to do best. One is to design machines, turn on the power and see them work. The other is to help turn on the power of the Gospel and see it work in people's lives.

Girl Held for Killing Father, Hiding Body

By The Associated Press

LACONIA, N. H., Sept. 6—An attractive 20-year-old woolen mill worker was held today on a charge of murder in the Yuletide season shooting of her father whose body, police said, lay buried for more than eight months under boards of a sheep pen on the family farm.

County Solicitor William W. Keller said the body was discovered yesterday after two brothers of the girl—Lt. Comdr. Charles Roberts and Petty Officer Robert Roberts—became suspicious of her actions and turned her over to police.

Keller said Miss Barbara Roberts signed a statement saying she shot her father, Sylvester, 52, last Dec. 21 in an argument over her failure to meet him at a railroad station, and then hid his body under loose boards in the pen.

HAWKINSON Tread Your Tires

Many users of HAWKINSON TREADS tell us that our treads actually improve their tires—that they experience INCREASED mileage on them. There are several very good reasons for this, two of these reasons being that (a) no heat is applied to the cords and inner rubber during the process of application, and that (b) the tread is applied under natural running conditions that are not used even in making a new tire, causing HAWKINSON TREADS to run cooler.
No HAWKINSON TREAD will be applied until the tire has been given the most rigid inspection and the carcass found to be in first class condition.

How ...Britain depending on Fort ...d to pull it through? Just ...the Attlee government's ...gram working out; can ...Nationalization cope with the crisis? Those are logical questions which the British public is anxiously studying.

Nationalization of the country's most important industry — coal mining — hasn't brought utopia to the mines. Some half-hundred Yorkshire pits are closed as the result of wildcat strikes which have thrown about 60,000 men out of work and have greatly aggravated the critical fuel shortage. The walkout has caused a loss of 300,000 tons of coal and the loss is continuing at the rate of 60,000 tons daily.

The result is that production in other industries has been curtailed, and the effect of the coal shortage is being felt throughout the country. The dispute may soon force 2,400 Yorkshire industrial plants, employing over 100,000 workers, to shut down for lack of fuel.

Started in One Pit

The strike started among 2,000 miners in one pit. The national coal board ordered them to dig two feet more of coal each day in the interests of recovery. The miners claimed that this would create an occupational hazard without increasing production. They struck, and other pits walked out in sympathy. They had their Socialist government; they had nationalization; they had a five day week; but they wanted their utopia now.

Continuation of this stoppage of vitally needed coal production can come close to wrecking Britain's recovery program. It is an anxious moment.

Fortunately British labor in general is standing with the government. Indeed the trade unions congress has voted overwhelmingly to support the government plan of taking over direction of labor during the heat of the crisis. Labor's concession in this matter is striking, for the program means temporary regimentation of the individual—a temporary approach to totalitarianism.

The British public, too, has jumped in line in support of the government's new austerity proposals, and those proposals mean further real hardships. Thus the Attlee cabinet is getting really magnificent cooperation, by and large.

What the British people and the outside world are waiting to find out is whether the government can give guidance and control which are commensurate with this support.

They are: (left to right) John P. McAndrew, second tenor; Warren Augenstein, first tenor; A. A. Ward, baritone, and Robert Heimlich, bass. Widely known throughout the state the quartet has made numerous appearances on programs for the Eagles lodge and also before other groups.

Earlier, this summer the quartet won first honors in competitive singing contests at the annual state convention of the lodge at Columbus and at that time was awarded a trophy.

VETS' BONDS APPLICABLE TO G.I. LIFE INSURANCE

Information Provided at Local Veterans Administration Office.

Veterans holding terminal leave bonds may apply them to National Service life insurance premiums and GI insurance loans, Samuel Manning, head of the local Veterans Administration office, stated today.

Expressing concern over the fact that so many veterans are cashing in their terminal leave bonds, Manning emphasized that veterans may receive a generous discount on their G.I. insurance premiums by paying future premiums in bonds. Veterans may apply all or part of their bonds to the insurance premiums.

Terminal leave bonds may also against National Service life insurance policies, Manning said, and in payment of the back premiums on a G.I. policy converted from term to a dated back straight life, 20-pay, or 30-pay life policy.

Veterans desiring further information are urged to contact Manning at the Veterans Administration office in the Marion building, 196 South Main street.

RUSS CANCER "CURE" TO BE TRIED IN FALL

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6—A New York scientist today said he planned to try the Russian "KR serum" for cancer on three hopeless human cases this fall, after getting some apparent cures in mice in preliminary tests.

But he emphatically stressed that there was not yet the slightest hope to believe that humans would react like the mice.

At the same time, another scientist reported no cures and only moderate effects at best from KR in mice in his experiments over a period of two years.

The apparent recoveries in some mice were reported by William M. Malisoff, Phd. biochemist and research director of the Longview Research Foundation, New York, to the fourth international cancer research congress.

KR is named for its Russian developers, Nina Kluyeva and Gregori Roskin, who prepared it from organisms that cause a tropical disease, chagas disease.

The Soviets have cautiously reported about 10 "more or less successful" recoveries from cancer among 60 persons treated with KR injections, said Theodore H. Hauschka, Phd., microbiologist of the institute for cancer research, Lankenau hospital, Philadelphia.

It was Dr. Hauschka who reported the generally poor results with KR preparations made at Philadelphia.

YOUR HEALTH

Colitis

Colitis or inflammation of the large intestine may take various forms. One of the most interesting of these is known as regional, or right-sided colitis.

The symptoms produced by this condition are usually less severe than those which are produced when the left side of the bowel and the rectum are affected. Diarrhea, straining, and blood in the bowel movements are not as marked.

On the other hand, other symptoms are present which do not occur in the left-sided colitis. These include fever, pains in the joints, and complications affecting the eyes. The diarrhea is usually moderate, rather than severe. Blood is present only occasionally in the bowel movements. Before the bowel movement, there is usually some pain in the abdomen, particularly in the right lower part. Following the bowel movement, the pain is often relieved.

The fever varies from 101 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit. It is usually lower in the morning and higher at night. If there is no fever, the disorder is usually less severe.

The exact cause of right-sided colitis is not known. The disorder seems to affect persons between six and sixty years of age, but is most common in those between twenty and forty.

The diagnosis of this condition is not difficult, particularly with careful X-ray examination. On the other hand, if the diarrhea is not severe, or is absent altogether, the condition may be confused with such disorders as rheumatic fever or undulant fever.

The treatment may be either medical, that is, by the use of certain medicines and diet, or surgical, depending upon the severity of the condition.

The medical treatment consists of plenty of rest, a diet containing no bulky or irritating foods, avoidance of vigorous exercise, and the giving of various vitamins by injection into a muscle. In addition, injections into the lower bowel of a solution of acriflavin, which is retained overnight, have been found helpful.

Certain sulfonamide drugs have also been utilized, especially those which are not absorbed, such as succinylsulfathiazole. Another drug known as phthalylsulfathiazole has also been employed. Injections of liver extract and vitamin B-complex into a muscle also have been found helpful.

If the patients do not respond to this type of treatment, various operations may be performed depending upon the area of the intestine affected.

Such operations are serious but in most cases good results are obtained. During the first three or four months after operation patients are usually restored to health, often gaining as much as thirty pounds in weight.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. C.: Please suggest something to relieve the redness of my nose.

Answer: Before treatment can be suggested, it is first necessary to determine the cause of the redness of the nose.

It is advisable that you consult a skin specialist for a reliable diagnosis and proper treatment.

Meet After 25 Years
GALION — For the first time in 25 years, four sisters held a reunion in Galion during the past week. Miss Viola Hardwick of Kansas City, Kansas, and Mrs. Thomas E. Pappas of Cleveland, together with her husband, came to Galion to spend several days with their sisters, Mrs. John L. Austin and Mrs. Albert S. Dunn. All were born in Carrollton, Mo., three of the sisters moving to Ohio a number of years ago, while Miss Hardwick remained in Missouri to become secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Theological seminary at Kansas City.

It is estimated that between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 American children of school age suffer from defective hearing.

Atomic Medicine Flying To Australian Victim

By The Associated Press

OAK RIDGE, TENN., Sept. 5 —The atomic energy commission is readying for air shipment today a quantity of the radioisotope phosphorus 32 for treatment next week of a victim of a blood disorder half way around the world.

The radioisotopes will be the first to go to a foreign country from the United States' chain-reacting atomic pile here.

Directed to the Commonwealth X-Ray and Radiation laboratories in Melbourne, Australia, for treatment of an urgent case of polycythemia vera, the radioisotopes will be placed aboard a Delta airlines plane at Knoxville early tonight.

From Chicago a United Airlines plane will take the shipment to San Francisco, where it will leave Sunday for the long flight across the Pacific aboard a plane of the British Commonwealth Pacific airlines.

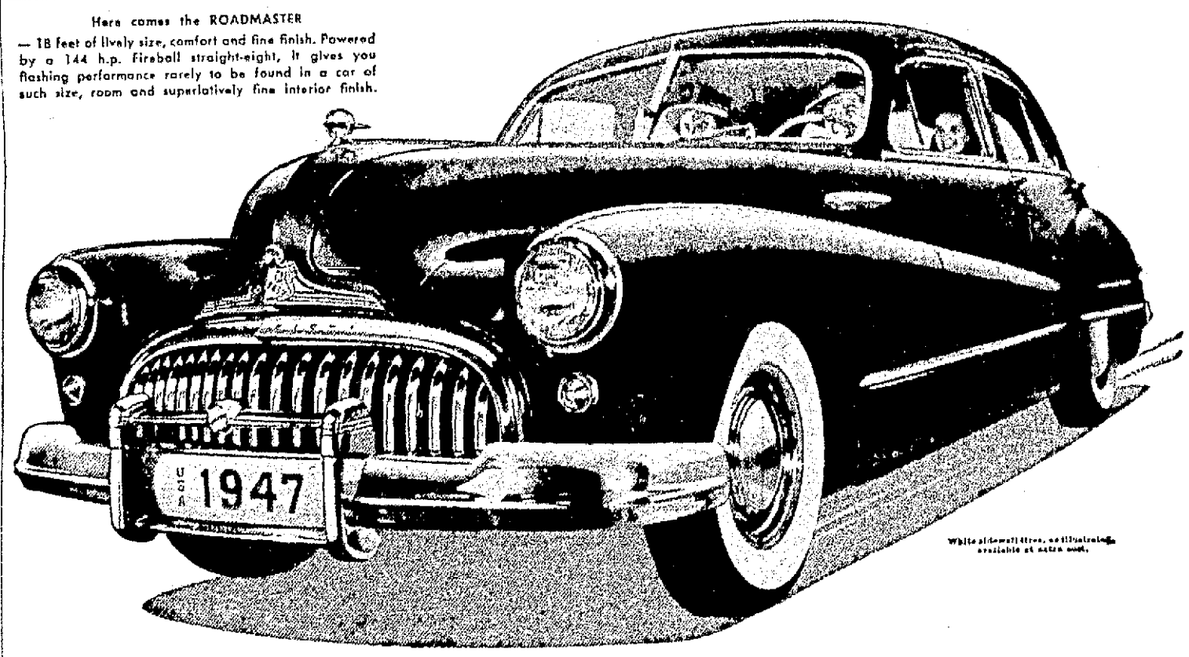

The United States thus will mark the beginning of its program of sharing with other nations the by-products of atomic energy.

Here comes the ROADMASTER — 18 feet of lively size, comfort and fine finish. Powered by a 144 h.p. Fireball straight-eight, it gives you flashing performance rarely to be found in a car of such size, room and superlatively fine interior finish.

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

Fine thing to See - to Drive - to Own

YOUR heart is set, we'll say, on something really superfine.

You want smartness — a truly handsome appearance that does you proud in any crowd.

You want ability — a car that does things, and with effortless ease.

You want size — size for interior room and size for steady, level going and serene disregard for the roughness of the road.

You want fine finish — truly rich interiors in perfect taste with the unmistakable touch of quality in every detail.

Against this prescription we ask you to put the Buick Roadmaster — match it, if you will, against any other car regardless of price for all-round excellence.

We don't have to point out its smartness — you see that.

But did you know that under this bonnet is 144 horsepower of smooth Fireball power?

Have you sampled how its 4400 pounds and 18 feet of bigness — mounted as they are on four gentle coil springs — level the roads to ballroom smoothness?

Have you tried its light handling — tested its smooth, easy lift under your treadle foot — inspected the fine rich fabrics, the tasteful interior trim, the fittings executed with the precision of fine silver?

A fine thing to see, a wonderful thing to drive, the Roadmaster is indeed a prideful thing to own. We honestly believe that nowhere can you find such a perfect balance of superfine qualities — style, size, handling, ride and finish.

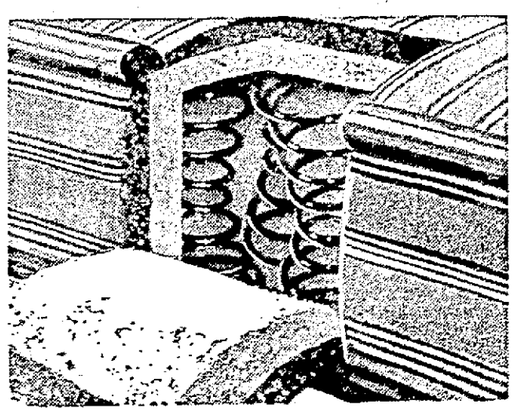

If your standards are high, your expectations great, come see us now about placing an order — with or without a car to trade.

Kind Words for UN

IN HIS address before Brazil's congress, President Truman took occasion to reaffirm his faith in the United Nations, answering some expressions of disappointment in its accomplishments. "They must not deter us in our determination to build an organization the world badly needs," he said. "Furthermore, we must ever keep in mind that the United Nations was not intended to settle problems arising immediately out of the war, but to provide the means for maintaining international peace after just settlements have been made.

"The United Nations is not a temporary expedient," the President said. "It is a permanent partnership—a partnership among the peoples of the world for their common peace and well-being. The difficulties we have encountered in this early phase of the life of the UN have not discouraged us. On the contrary, they have increased our determination that it shall succeed."

Just as the present inter-American solidarity isn't the product of a few years' effort, so the UN must grow to maturity over a long period. It must face discouragement and what sometimes seem to be insurmountable obstacles. In the future, as now, there will be times when the UN seems to be a collection of theorists wandering in a world of harsh realities. Among the stanchest of those supporters are the United States and the other nations of the Western Hemisphere.

And a Billion for Ethics

THE eight-point program for harnessing science to national policy that has been published by the President's scientific research board is a useful starting point for discussion. As Mr. Truman said when he issued the report: "We must constantly enlarge the boundaries of scientific knowledge in order to continue to provide the benefits of full production and full employment, and in order to protect our democracy from the dangers it faces in an uneasy world."

But if science is going to be used (scientifically) to advance national policy and increase the national margin of military security, it had better be acknowledged that there is more to it than gadgets, test tubes, formulas, atomic bombs and newer and more ingenious ways to lift the handicaps that arise under a doctrine of mechanism. There is, for example, a branch of science called ethics, which concerns the character of human beings and societies.

In this century the Germans have excelled in the mastery of chemistry, physics and those branches of science that dealt with the physical strength of the German nation. But the Germans carried over into this century from the last century a heavy handicap of ethical blankness that destined them for the grisly fate that befell them at the hands of an Austrian madman named Hitler. If the United States is going to subsidize the means of increasing its strength, at least a billion should be set aside to subsidize the means of using that strength for great and high purposes.

Note to Drivers

DRIVERS who have been careful all summer should be even more cautious with the opening of school. School zone signs which have been ignored the last three months take on a new validity. Drivers are reminded there is a state law which says highway traffic in both directions stops at a school bus discharging or taking on passengers. Road patrolmen are diligent in enforcing this law.

Traffic accidents took 33,700 lives in 1946 and left 100,000 permanently disabled. Too many of these were school children. So drive with extreme caution in the vicinity of schools. No matter where the fault lies, it's a grim burden of sorrow that comes to a driver whose car snufis out a child's life.

A Little Below the Knee

NEVER underestimate the stubborness of a man. It's rumored that men's pants will be shortened in direct proportion to the lengthened hemline of women's dresses.

A pair of pants can be shortened indefinitely as the cuifs wear out. High school kids with their blue jeans have shown what the general effect will be.

There would be a sort of natural justice in all this, because if women must buy new clothes to stay in style men won't be able to buy any and will have to get along with what they have—pants a little shorter as they erode at the bottom, until finally they reach the knee and knee breeches and stockings come back in style. Don't underestimate us.

Every part of the world contributes coloring materials for the tiles in America's bathrooms. Cobalt for blue is obtained from Norway, Sweden, Finland and Canada; manganese for black comes from Brazil, Russia and India; chrome for pink, green and maroon is imported from Rhodesia, New Caledonia, Greece and Russia.

The Dollar in World Markets

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Grave Danger of Further Devaluation.

PROBABLY no civilized country on earth enjoys so little knowledge of that complex matter known as currency exchange as the United States. The general ignorance here about the relative values of the pound and dollar was well shown during the London economic conference in 1933. At that time, President Roosevelt made an extraordinary announcement to the effect that this country would not even promise to stabilize the two currencies in the future, let alone do it immediately.

This received approval in America, except in informed business circles. In Europe, it created havoc and despair and destroyed the conference. And within a few months Roosevelt himself admitted his error by agreeing to stabilize and fix the price of gold.

Sound Program Needed

It would help European recovery right now and lessen our burden under the Marshall plan if we could reach a rational policy about the world value of the dollar. For some time, there have been unfounded and extremely harmful rumors abroad that the U. S. proposes once more to reduce the gold value of the dollar. This seriously upset the economy of Sweden and deeply affected Swiss policy. More recently, because of such rumors, big Indian credits here were withdrawn.

It might be well if the President or Secretary Snyder would make a speech or statement not only denying the possibility of depreciating the dollar but spelling out for the information of a foggy American opinion just why it could not be done without disastrous consequences. The world might, at the same time, receive a bit of education about economic conditions here.

Different Situation Now

When we revalued the dollar in terms of gold in 1933-34, this country desperately needed to export more to revive business and raise prices. The circumstances today are precisely the reverse, as anyone can see. If we should increase the price of gold in terms of dollars, we would decrease the purchasing power of the dollar abroad. This would increase our exports and reduce our imports. This, in turn, would increase stresses on British and other economies to a point where disaster might be the result.

Even now, Britain is bitterly complaining about its difficulty in exporting goods. Our exports are already running up to $20,000,000,000 annually and, as our goods flow out, scarcity raises prices here. Our real interest is to increase imports.

Problems Abroad

If this be true, why should not Britain and other countries devalue their currencies and thus increase their exports? The temptation is, in reality, very great, but three considerations stand in the way. The first is that the real problem of Britain and, in large part, that of other countries is lack of production. They are not making the goods needed for export.

The second deterrent is the American exporter, who would complain if the present currency ratio were changed. Congress must soon face another British loan, and Britain is anxious not to create new difficulties.

The third reason is the International Monetary Fund. In the agreement under which the fund was set up, Britain would be required to discuss the matter with the fund if it sought to depreciate the pound by even 10 per cent. And, under the same agreement, each participating nation is forced to forbid currency transactions within its own borders at any rate except the official figure. Britain, in order to get around this prohibition, would have to deal with all the other member nations.

Possible Answer

The answer may be, as some American economists suggest, in a restoration of a free exchange market, which would certainly reduce the value of other currencies in terms of the dollar and aid in general recovery. This, contend these economists, would greatly stimulate exports from other countries. One of these economists, Henry Hazlitt, suggests further that the restortion of free markets in exchange and commodities would make the Marshall plan unnecessary.

The Sky Is No Place To Fall Off the Wagon

A Detroit citizen has been sentenced to 90 days for flying a plane under the influence of alcohol.

That's more dangerous than flying one under Brooklyn Bridge.

A plane is no place in which to get high....other than literally.

Drunken driving is bad enough but you can always park under a tree and sleep it off.

A pilot who drinks in the cockpit is more than apt to do his next flying with a harp.

That's why there's no need for any organization, Alcoholics Aeronautical.

A drunk isn't lighter than air ....he only feels that way.

Remodeling the Hulk

By FRANK TRIPP

DID YOU ever set out to diminish your avoirdupois? It's one way to detect most of the liars in your realm. They tell you how trim you look and add weird advice.

If I followed it all I'd class with Mahatma Gandhi. I haven't quite made his weight, but with five pounds still to go my clothes begin to hang like his bed sheet.

My legs seem to be reverting to more symmetric form. I look down at them, for the first time in 20 years, and marvel that now I can itch 'em all the way to the ground. That ceremony, occasionally comforting, has heretofore been confined to a reclining position. It is amazing what fat men and babies can do with their feet when they're flat on their backs. Also how little they can do with them when they're not.

But reducing the legs is not the main objective. Like every great reform some unwanted by-product precedes the desired result. Legs seem to shrink from square piano to spinet size first, whereas the object was to leave them reasonably substantial and reduce the paunch which they support.

* * *

A, there's the trick, and to do it, brother, you've got something ahead of you. If you have one of those 34-inch girths that can plow stump land on canary food you'll have little sympathy for a gourmand with a snug 46.

Once dressed, he must depend on mirrors or hearsay for news of sartorial shortcomings from all points south of that promontory which arrives first whenever he's moving forward. Same handicap if he would behold nature's engineering triumph, the rotund counter-balance judiciously placed aft; put there to save the great hulk from tipping forward—also to perplex tailors and hostesses with antique chairs.

You accomplish your required reduction in a very simple manner, says the prescribing physician. You leave his office certain that all you need do is take off a little weight and you'll be as good as new—whatever new is. You feel like your wheezing old crate would feel if it could hear what the used car man offered for it. And you're in just about as good shape. Only everybody wants the car but nobody wants a fat man.

So you consider the advantages—that getting thin will make you the life of the party. You start the fast enthused over the juvenile center of attraction you're about to become.

Then the damn thing begins to happen. You starve yourself and take off some weight. But the cussed weight won't come off where you've got most to spare. Those promontories, both fore and aft, go down last and slower than the national debt. When finally you have lost 15 pounds you still can't see your feet without a periscope.

* * *

That's when you wake up that the process ain't going to make you no Adonis. You send back the samples of snappy tweeds, trot out your old suits and call on three tailors and a tentmaker before you find one willing to cut 'em down to your new and funnier shape. If you're not a very strong character you break training, go for a porterhouse steak with French fries, tail off with two cuts of pie—and a snoot full.

You lament your sagging jowls and the crinkled hide you'll retain with nothing to occupy it. You decide you can't get new clothes anyway, that you'll postpone your dehydration until two-pant suits come back and the put tails on shirts. Defiantly you proclaim the fat man's favorite quote:

"Let me have men about me that are fat. Yon Cassius hath a lean and hungry look. Such men are dangerous."

All in vain! You haven't a Chinaman's chance. Your wife, fearing no husband, fat or skinny, steps in and you resume the fast.

Still dubious whether 'tis better that part of you stays here longer or that all of you enjoys a shorter but marrier stay.

New Version

The Postoffice department has alerted its inspectors to crack down on a new version of the old "chain letter" craze—baited with a $2,048 lure.

A department statement said there were indications "another wave of chain letters is sweeping the nation."

Whoever thought up the idea got away from previous chain letter systems which involved mailing name lists and instructions, thus providing open and shut cases for prosecution. It works this way:

Mr. A makes up a list of 10 names (himself and pals presumably) and goes personally to friend B. and sells him the list for $2. B. then sends another $2 by mail to the name at the top of the list, in the presence of Mr. A., and puts his own name at the bottom of the list.

B. then makes two copies of the list and sells them at $2 a piece to Miss C. and Mrs. D. and the chain is under way, each seller in turn sitting back and waiting for the dividenrs to come in by mail.

Theoretically, everyone buying the list and getting in at the bottom has the prospect of eventually being at the top of 1,204 lists. They are thus privileged to dream about an eventual return of $2,048.

TALK ABOUT LONGER SKIRTS!

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Sept. 6, 1937.

At least 429 persons died violent deaths in the United States during the weekend Labor Day holiday. A survey by the Associated Press showed 302 auto traffic deaths in 44 states. There were 271 during the corresponding period the previous year.

Mrs. Jennie Blanche Barnthouse, 54, died at her home on South Main street.

A birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bodley of the Canaan pike was in honor of Mrs. Minerva Stull of Delaware avenue.

Rev. J. E. Davidson was returned as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene at the closing session of the annual district assembly of the Nazarene church at Columbus.

A preview of chilly autumn weather that gripped Marion and most of Ohio over the weekend holiday, was due to give way to slightly warmer weather. The mercury slumped to 50 the preceding night.

Marion's Ohio State League baseball team won both ends of a doubleheader 8-4 and 8-1 over the Fremont Reds to close the regular playing season for both teams.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, Sept. 6, 1927.

Friends of President Coolidge who had hopes of drafting him for renomination the following year were greatly cheered by the news that Charles Evan Hughes would not be a candidate and "was for President Coolidge."

Mrs. Charles H. Elliott entertained 60 guests at a luncheon at the Marion Country club.

A more generous application of the principle of the brotherhood of man would go a long way toward solving the problem of unemployment facing the city and county, Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, told members of the Rotary club at the weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding.

Mrs. Clemington Corson, New York woman who attempted to win the Dover gold cup by being the first woman to make a round trip swim of the English channel, was forced to give up with her goal, the gray rocks of Cape Gris-Nez, France, only four miles away.

Dwight Boyer, Vincent Moran, Shelby Hammond, Ray Kelleher, John Peacock and Harold Tobin returned from an outing at Rye Beach.

Restrictions on U. S. Power

By WALTER LIPPMANN

A CRUCIAL defect of the policy of firm containment, known to the world as the Truman doctrine, is that it concedes to the Russians the initiative in the contest.

We are "to hold the line," leaving it to the Kremlin to decide when, where and how it will exert pressure upon that line. We are to erect, "unassailable barriers in its paths;" we are to confront the Russians with "counterforce" wherever and whenever they "show signs of encroaching upon the interests of a stable and peaceful world."

Therefore unless we can have decisive force immediately available at all times and at every point on the vast perimeter of Soviet power in Europe, the Middle East and in Asia, the chances are that usually, if not always, we shall arrive too late with too little counterforce.

Moreover, having surrendered the initiative, the policy commits us to an enormous effort without offering any concrete objective that can be attained, for when we arrived at one of the shifting points, and if our counterforce were sufficient to contain the Russians, then all that we could expect to accomplish by our exertions would be to stop that particular attempt to cross the line. The Russians would then be free to pause, while we wondered anxiously where they would decide to encroach the next time.

I find it hard to understand how Mr. X could have recommended such a strategic monstrosity. For he tells us, no doubt truly, that the Soviet power "cannot be easily defeated or discouraged by a single victory on the part of its opponents." And that "the patient persistence by which it is animated" means that it cannot be "effectively countered by sporadic acts."

Counterforce Only

Yet his only policy calls for a series of sporadic acts: The United States is to apply "counterforce" where the Russians encroach and when they encroach.

On his own testimony no single victory will easily defeat or discourage the patient persistence of the Kremlin. Yet Mr. X says that the United States should aim to win a series of victories which will cause the Russians to "yield on individual sectors of the diplomatic front." And then what?

When the United States has forced the Kremlin to "face frustration indefinitely" there will "eventually" come "either the breakup or the gradual mellowing of the Soviet power."

There is, however, no rational ground for confidence that the United States could muster "unalterable counterforce" at all the individual sectors. The Eurasian continent is a big place and the military power of the United States, though it is very great, has certain limitations which must be borne in mind if it is to be used effectively.

We live on an island continent. We are separated from the theaters of conflict by the great oceans. We have a relatively small population, of which the greater proportion must in time of war be employed in producing, transporting and servicing the complex weapons and engines which constitute our military power. The United States has as compared with the Russians no adequate reserves of infantry.

Our navy commands the oceans and "we possess the major offensive weapons of war. But on the ground in the interior of the Eurasian continent, as we are learning in the Greek mountains, there may be many 'individual sectors' where only infantry can be used as the 'counterforce.'"

These considerations must determine American strategy in war, and therefore, also in diplomacy, whenever the task of diplomacy is to deal with a conflict and a contest of power. The planner of American diplomatic policy must use the kind of power we do have, not the kind we do not have. He must use that kind of power where it can be used. He must avoid engagements in those "individual sectors of the diplomatic front" where our opponents can use the weapons in which they have superiority.

Considerations Ignored

But the policy of firm containment as defined by Mr. X ignores these tactical considerations. It makes no distinction among sectors. It commits the United States to confront the Russians with counterforce "at every point" along the line, instead of at those points which we have selected because, there at those points, our kind of sea and air power can be exerted.

American military power is peculiarly unsuited to a policy of containment which has to be enforced persistently and patiently for an indefinite period of time. If the Soviet Union were an island, like Japan, such a policy could be enforced by American sea and air power. The United States could, without great difficulty, impose a blockade. But the Soviet Union has to be contained on land, and "holding the line" is therefore a form of trench warfare.

Yet the genius of American military power does not lie in holding positions indefinitely. That requires a massive patience by great hordes of docile people. American military power is distinguished by its mobility, its speed, its range and its offensive striking force. It is, therefore, not an efficient instrument for a diplomatic policy of containment. It can only be the instrument of a policy which has as its objective a decision and a settlement.

It can and should be used—I shall argue in the course of this series—to redress the balance of power which has been upset by the war. But it is not designed for or adapted to a strategy of containing, waiting, countering, blocking, with no more specific objective than the eventual "frustration" of the opponent.

The American's would themselves probably be frustrated by Mr. X's policy long before the Russians were.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Money in Gayer Colors

Every few days somebody else comes out in favor of the proposal for vari-colored paper money. Norman Rockwell just indorsed the idea. It seems to be the feeling that money goes through our hands so fast today it can't be identified under the old plain hues.

* * *

In fact we can't hang onto it long enough to depend on anything but the sense of touch.

* * *

"I'm for rainbow dough," said Elmer Twitchell today as another ten spot went the rounds his hands at high speed and after one bounce. "We've got to do something to currency so it will hit the eye and leave a distinct impression on how much it was and in what direction it went.

* * *

"We Americans have a right to know what we're handling so briefly," he continued. "There was a time when the passage of a five dollar bill through the human hand was not quicker than the eye.

* * *

"A feller could be sure whether it was a dollar bill or a tenner. Now all he knows is that if it won't buy much of anything it must be a ten.

* * *

"If we color confetti why not American currency? What's the difference?

* * *

"Nothing except that confetti will go further in a butcher shop.

* * *

"I have never found fault with the color of money before. The sample standard shades were okay. But now the public needs cheering up with regard to money—and new, gayer colors might turn the trick.

"What colors would you like to see our dollar in?" we asked.

"Anything gay and festive," he replied. "I think anything under a ten dollar bill should be in bright polka dots so we could keep up it in flight."

"Would polka dots do it?" we asked.

"I doubt it. Maybe we should add some bright stripes and luminous paint."

* * *

Mr. Twitchell expressed the idea that the purchasing public should be in brighter colors too. "It is feeling drabber and drabber," he declared. "If things keep up the customer will be a sickly green."

* * *

Elmer seemed favorable to the idea that it might facilitate trade if customers entering a store with more than $10 wore a red coat with white pants. If less than $10, no pants.

* * *

"What about having the storekeepers color the checks or slips bearing the total purchase?" we asked.

"That might be fun, too," said Elmer, although in this respect the colors black and white seem to hit the eyes hard enough. I've heard no complaints of indistinctness."

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I am worried about you. All you write to me any more is long descriptions of reasons why things are better than they seem to be. You sound to me like a fellow whistling on his way past a cemetery after dark.

Don't be afraid. There's nothing to be afraid of, really there isn't. It's imagination. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who knew something about not being afraid, said a mouthful when he told Americans on a memorable occasion that all they had to fear was fear itself.

This is one of those times when the common sense in the old sayings about vanity, false security and laying up your treasures on earth comes out. Values are changing—money values especially. The only things that aren't changing are the eternal verities. I think they are called. It's a bad time to be caught short on eternal verities.

Day before yesterday I spotted what looked like a shack in a grove on the far side of the clearing east of the sugar camp. I was out there looking around, with time on my hands, so I walked over to investigate. What I intended to do was chase out the trespassers. But after I had investigated it didn't seem to be such a good idea.

It wasn't a shack, but a beautiful trailer with so much patchwork on it that it didn't even look like a trailer. The fellow had brought it in with his car, an old Plymouth and said he'd be obliged for the use of my land a few days. Apologized for not asking, but pointed out there was no one around to ask. He and his wife and a good looking little girl about two were seeing the country, he said. He aimed to work just enough to keep going, no more. He asked me five dollars for eight hours, so I paid him $5 to clean up around the camp. I went back today and he'd done fine.

I should have thrown them off the land. Who do they think they are? But I found out who they think they are, and that's why I let them stay. They think they are three human beings who have discovered how to have a good time without a lot of possessions. It shone out all over them. They radiated happiness. They didn't have a care in the world, as far as I could see. They didn't have anything else in the world—as far as I could see—except a beat-up automobile and a beat-up trailer, plus a few clothes, some cooking utensils and a fortune in eternal verities to sustain them even if all arbitrary and artificial values got turned upside down. Don't go telling this around where the tycoon-topped economists might stumble over it and file a complaint against me for operating without a college degree, but I suspect when readjustment has run its course a lot of people who need nothing but slips of paper to fall back on are going to be wiped out.

I gather this is part of what you're gloomy about—plus a lot of fears about things that probably won't happen. I repeat: Use up your energy accumulating eternal verities. Get yourself into a position where some baboon can't wipe you out with a flick of his finger and you'll find there's nothing to be afraid of. Or am I talking like an old man? Give my regards to the family and tell the kids to look their teachers straight in the eye and not to be afraid.

Cotton Corners — Uncle George

The waterproofing effectiveness of melamine plastics which is made from bituminous coal was recently demonstrated in a dramatic way by floating paper bags each containing 50 pounds of flour over Niagara Falls. The bags were recovered 167 feet below the falls with the contents undamaged.

A Sermonette

By REV. R. A. MAUGANS

Pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist Church

... 2:17: "And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof, ... doeth the will of God abideth forever."

...orld passeth away, and ...thereof"—The invested ...real estate, the craving to have, selfishness and greed will pass away, but "he that doeth the will of God, liveth and abideth forever."

The poet William Wordsworth has said,

"The world is too much with us late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers.
Little we see in nature that is ours.
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon
The sea that bares her bosom to the moon,
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are upgathered now like sleeping flowers.
For this, for everything we are out of tune."

Yes, it is true. The graces of this world for which we so arduously labor shall pass away, "But he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

To do the will of God there is of necessity the knowledge of recognizing His will, when it is presented.

* In company with James and John, Jesus went up into the mountain to pray. While they were engaged in prayer the voice of the Father was heard saying, "This is My beloved Son hear ye Him." It was this same Jesus who later said, "He that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

To do the will of the Father is to receive His gift, the Son, whom He sent into the world to save the world from its sin. To receive Christ as Lord and Savior, is to experience not only joy and happiness in this world, which passeth away, but everlasting life in the place which Christ has gone to prepare.

"If I gained the world, but lost the Savior,
Were my life worth living for a day,
Could my yearning heart find rest and comfort,
In the things that soon must pass away?
If I gained the world, but lost the Savior
Would my gain be worth the life long strife?
Are all earthly pleasures worth comparing
For a moment with a Christ-filled life?"

"For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or, what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" ***

2 MARION DOCTORS TO RECEIVE HONORS

Dr. Merchant and Dr. Plymale Go to N. Y. for Ceremony.

Dr. Jay L. Plymale and Dr. Frederick T. Merchant, accompanied by their wives, left today for New York City to attend the thirty-third annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons which will be held the week of Sept. 8 to 13. On Friday evening the honorary degree of fellowship in the college, the highest degree awarded by this outstanding surgical college, will be conferred upon them.

Notification of the election to fellowship of these two young Marion surgeons was received here recently.

The conferring of the fellowships will take place at the formal convocation Friday in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria. Dr. Arthur Allen of Boston, president of the college, will present the two local surgeons their degrees. The ceremonies will be broadcast by station WNYC and associated chain stations.

The five-day clinical conference of the college, which is this year being held in New York, is one of the medical highlights each year in American surgery. During the congress an intensive program consisting of scientific papers, clinics, and demonstrations of new surgical techniques developed by the surgical profession in the United States, Canada and Great Britain during the preceding year is presented. In addition, all of the hospitals of the city of New York will hold special clinics and operative demonstrations which the college members attend.

This is the second honor received by both Marion doctors during the last 12 months. Dr. Plymale last fall had the degree of Associate Fellow conferred upon him by the International College of Surgeons, while Dr. Merchant received his degree as Diplomat of the American Board of Surgeons.

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Care of Household Metal Work

Americans always have been famous for their ability to work metal with wood and produce some of the finest effects ever seen in either furniture or household equipment.

No doubt this can be attributed to the fact that many of the original settlers were skilled mechanics and artisans, imported by the first aristocratic plantation owners who settled in the South and wanted the best of workmanship in their manor houses. The finest examples of Colonial architecture and furniture are not due entirely to the designers, but largely to the skilled hands of the workmen who executed the designs.

The countries of Europe specialize in stone, marble and tile, because wood is scarce except in the northern climates. However, wood always has been plentiful in this country, and our builders and mechanics have made the most of it. In no other country will you find the metal edges, inserts, heavy brass trimmings and substantial hardware which is found here, and usually it is used to splendid advantage in connection with some of our finer woods.

The average house is well equipped with hardware. Most of it is intended to be polished and kept in sharp contrast with the wood it embellishes. Too often it is allowed to dull so that a fine door—with a heavy knocker and large knob-plate—is a dull picture, whereas the metal trim should sparkle and present an air of good maintenance and household order.

It often has been said that you can judge the amount of effort or care put into the keeping of a house by the condition of the metal work. It starts in the kitchen with the pots and pans, and ends at the front door with the knob and doorbell.

Most of us have waited at a door to be admitted. You probably have noticed whether or not the trimmings were polished or wiped. When fine brass-work has been painted over, or become covered with discoloration, you have had the impression of poor or slipshod housekeeping. When the metal trimmings are polished and bright, you have the impression of liking the house before you enter it.

Metal polishing becomes a chore only when you let it go too long. Thirty seconds of time, once a week, will keep the average doorknob in presentable shape. Let it go for a few months, and you will have an hour's hard work.

Instead of maintaining permanent plans, early English makers of ceramic tile are believed to have traveled about the country and constructed special kilns wherever they received a large tile order.

Buyer Has House Burned To 'Solve' Termite Problem

George R. Martel got rid of the termites in his house by burning the place down on the hottest night of the year, an Associated Press dispatch from Sturbridge, Mass., reported on Aug. 14.

A crowd of 500 watched as World War II veterans poured gasoline on a pile of timber on the first floor of the two-story dwelling and put a match to it. In 40 minutes the 125-year-old home was reduced to ashes. The fire was set with the approval of Fire Chief John B. Cartier.

When Martel bought the house a month before, he thought he and his wife had solved the housing shortage, the news dispatch reported. He found, instead, that the beams, window frames and flooring were so honeycombed with termites that the building was beyond repair. Martel plans to build a new home on what can be salvaged from the foundation.

Termite exterminator and control service agencies say that Martel could have been spared his costly experience had he taken advantage of provisions set up for protection of GI's buying properties. On line 7 of the GI appraisal form the true condition regarding termites is requested. This provision can be complied with through competent inspection, it is pointed out.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Cement Blockhouse Floor

Q. We are building a blockhouse and expect to use it only in the summer months to begin with, and are planning on a cement floor. Would we have trouble with its cracking if it is built up on the ground with about 12 inches of cinders?

A. You would do well to reconsider your idea of having only a cement floor between yourselves and the ground. Even if you live in the house only in the summer time, you would find the cement floor cold, hard and damp. Try to plan for a basement for the house and good wood flooring for the rooms. If you must follow your plan for the cement floor, you can get detailed instructions for the work from the Portland Cement Association, 33 West Grand Avenue, Chicago.

To make the floor more comfortable, coat the cement floor with liquid asphalt, over which a layer of heavy asphalt saturated felt is laid, overlapping the sheets half their width, with a mopping of asphalt under each overlap. Wood block flooring is then put down in asphalt mastic cement. Or you could use a flooring of asphalt tile. This, however, would not be as warm as a wood floor. The wall plastering should be applied over lath and furring strips and, for additional comfort, blanket or batt-type insulation placed between the studs.

* * *

Plaster or Plasterboard?

Q. I am thinking of buying a home that has plasterboard walls. Do you think this will stand up as well as regular plaster? Can such walls be plastered?

A. If the plasterboard has been correctly put up according to the manufacturer's instructions, especially the closing of the joints between the sheets, the plasterboard should be entirely satisfactory and make an attractive finish for your walls. Very large sheets cannot be plastered. The small sizes can be plastered, at least three-eighths inches thick. The work should be done by a plasterer.

DRILLING STONE

Q.: In order to mount an iron railing on my front steps I must drill a hole in fieldstone. A star drill is dulled immediately because of the hardness of the stone. What tool can I use or who could do this job for me?

A.: Usually a star drill will do the job unless the tool was made of a poor quality metal. You might try it again with a good quality, properly-tempered star drill made of forged steel. Should this fail, try to locate a monument maker in your community who could drill holes in quick time.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

By The Associated Press

A compact house plan dictated by postwar building costs, but designed for future expansion. E. L. Baker of 1525 West High street, Lima, O., was the architect. This is his design 701. The house comprises 22,000 cubic feet. A usual fault in small houses, direct entry from street to living room, is avoided by planning the entry to one side and providing for access to a future second floor from that point. The architect points out that the living room and dining room can be separated by accordion type folding doors, partition or left open for spaciousness. Attic is large enough for two more bedrooms.

Permits Given For Theaters

U. S. Reveals Bars, Race Tracks Also Being Issued Building Clearance.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—Government housing officials disclosed today they still are passing out permits to build some theaters, a few bars and even an occasional race track.

They have given the nod to 318 such projects, to cost $8,824,718, since July 1. On that date new regulations went into effect freeing from control all commercial building not specifically for amusement.

In the two months' period 800 applications have been rejected. The object is to save scarce materials so more homes can be built.

Approvals in the past week included 16 new theaters, six drinking establishments and a new home for American Legion Post 455 at Woodville, O.

All told 36 amusement or recreational projects were authorized during the week. They will cost a total of $1,179,331. The week's denials totaled 66.

Theaters have had the best of it from the start. About half the 139 theater approvals so far have been based on "community need;" the rest on "hardship" that threatened to put the operator out of business.

The new theaters will cost $4,198,903. Another 330 theater applications were denied. They would have cost $15,220,350.

Bars are not essential, housing experts asserted. They said the 58 drinking places okayed so far—to cost $514,347—got green light only because of hardship that promised to bankrupt the owner.

This usually means he has been evicted or his former place burned down.

Bar owners who failed to make the grade totaled 122. They asked to spend $1,371,034, but will have to wait.

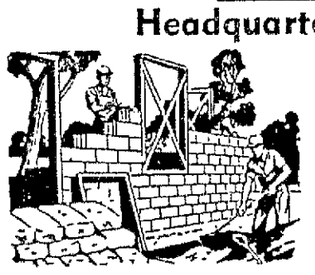

Four so-called "gambling establishments" have gotten the nod. These actually were race tracks and their applications involved repairs or additions to cost $77,006. "Hardship" was the ground for approval.

Ten new swimming pools have been authorized and 24 bowling alleys—some to satisfy community need, others to ease ownership hardship.

Povenmire, Mrs. Homer Kelly, Mrs. Ralph Kelly and Mrs. Robert Miller.

Twenty-three members responded to roll call when Circle 3 held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Harvey Tennant. She was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Duff Henderson, Mrs. S. A. Wheatcraft and Mrs. J. A. Appleman. Devotions were led by Mrs. Wheatcraft.

A program of more than ordinary interest consisted of piano selections played by Genevieve Shumaker, and two readings given by Miss Elsa Pester, when the Frauenverein met at Peace Lutheran parish house, Thursday afternoon. Group singing of hymns interspersed the program. A business session was conducted by Mrs. Ida Linsenmann, and the devotional period was in charge of Rev. Philip E. Auer. In October the hostess will be Mrs. Robert Shumaker.

Nearly 60 per cent of all teachers in rural elementary schools having one or two teachers have had less than two years of education beyond high school.

BOWLING SCORES

The Classic league bowled in at the Palace Bowling alleys Thursday night in classic style.

The new loop opened its season with eleven 200 or better scores and two better than 600 series.

In order to qualify for the league a bowler must have posted an average of over 170 last season. Prior to Thursday night only one person had cracked 200.

J. Tanner led the scorers with a 264 single game and a 619 series. E. Fields was next in line for honors with a 203 and 224 in a 607 series.

Rish, bowling for Commercial No. 1 in the Osgood Affiliated league at the Palace Recreation alleys Wednesday night, became the first Marion bowler to join the 200 club this season.

He apparently warmed up to his 208 final game score, an unimpressive 110 and 157 before beating the mark.

B. Kirby rolling in the Business Men's league, turned in the most consistent performance to date, rolling 194, 192 and 190 for a 576 total. This score was also posted at the Palace.

The women didn't seem to be having the men's pre-season rustiness quite as badly. Three of them broke into the 150 circle, considered a good women's score. They were Eve Applegate with a 151 and a 165, Gurner with a 155, and Strope with a 152. These scores were posted in the Ladies All-Star league at the Marion recreation alleys. Applegate posted the high series, 451.

TWO POLICEMEN JAILED FOR ASSAULTING GIRL

Found Guilty of Raping 17-Year-Old They Found in Lover's Lane.

By The United Press

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 6 — Two Oakland police officers were found guilty late yesterday of raping a 17-year-old girl by a jury which stipulated they should be sentenced to San Quintin prison for terms of one to 50 years on each of two counts.

The two men, Robert G. Bell, 27, and Edward E. Bauer, 31, were found guilty of rape and of aiding each other to commit rape on a high school girl they found "petting" with a boy friend near a local lover's lane.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated for two hours and 30 minutes and reached a verdict on the first ballot.

During the trial the girl testified the officers took turns violating her after threatening her with arrest and disgrace unless she submitted. Both men were suspended from the force after the girl's family entered a complaint.

Neither Bell nor Bauer showed emotion as the verdict was returned. Their wives, both pregnant, wept.

American Egg Mart Scrambled Into Big Gold-Dusted Omelet

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—It is my considered opinion that the original producers, namely the chickens, could have thought up an easier method than the government's to bring on dollar-a-dozen eggs.

The federals didn't mean to scramble the nation's eggs into a gold-dusted omelet that nobody can afford to eat. You can't blame congress, the diplomats, or the agriculture department for our multi-million dollar mess of eggs, mostly busted. They meant well.

But one thing led to another until now we've got a record-breaking surplus of eggs as well as a record-breaking shortage. Yes we have, chickens. Both at the same time.

Surplus eggs are piling up by the millions of dozens, the trainload and the warehouseful. There are so many extra eggs which can't be sold that there are hardly any left which can. That's one reason—high feed prices are another—why the price is nudging $1 a dozen now.

Officials Hate Eggs

The Joes at the agriculture department in charge of eggs don't eat same, themselves. They hate eggs. They've got about $60,000,000 worth on hand, which they have dried into powder or frozen in slabs. It pains 'em even to talk about eggs. Here's why:

Congress, you may remember, passed a law continuing until two years after the war the government's guarantee of 90 per cent of parity prices for assorted foodstuffs, including eggs. The idea was to induce the farmer to grow more food.

We needn't go into the labyrynth of decimal points and percentage tables behind parity prices. The idea is that every time the price of a tractor goes up, or a calico dress for the farmer's wife, the parity price of the food he sells goes up, too. If nobody else will pay it, the government will.

So prices have been rising on tractors and dresses. This has kept the government's statisticians busy raising the value of eggs. They went up so rapidly that the farmers frequently couldn't get parity for hen fruit. This forced the government, under the law, to buy his surpluses at the highest prices in history.

Still Buying

This year so far the federal egg experts have bought 300,000,000 dozen eggs; they're still buying. They may not like it, but law is law. They're wrinkling their noses and enforcing it.

They sold less than half their eggs to England for $50,000,000, which we loaned her. Then she ran out of our dollars and quit buying 'em.

This has stuck the government with 160,000,000 dozen, powdered or frozen. It's against the law to give 'em away, say, to hungry Germans or Japs. Federal eggs must be sold at full price, or not at all.

It's breaking another law to sell 'em in this country at a bargain, because the egg industry operates under federal price protection. The egg surplus thus is growing bigger, while the egg shortage is growing worse, and where this will end the egg experts do not know.

If they tell the farmers to produce fewer eggs next year, the government won't have to buy so many, but the price will go higher still. If they suggest that the hens make new production records to help feed a hungry world, new egg surpluses under parity will develop, and the price of eggs will continue to soar. Whatever the omelet boys do—and they've got to make up their minds soon—they'll be wrong.

Any suggestions, chickens?

"Many members of congress," Young continued, "have repeatedly said that this commission does the will of the charmed circle that controls the railroads of the south and west for the alleged benefit of the east, but to the injury of everyone."

Young described Johnson's statement as "a coal smoke screen" and said that Johnson compared "haulers of 'fast' freight with the coal-carrying C. and O., a completely misleading comparison * * *."

The C. and O. chairman declared his road "has increased its fleet of all kinds of cars 25 per cent when all other roads have allowed their fleets to dwindle 25 per cent" and added:

"Our Rip Van Winkle ad attacks deliberate freight slowdowns by agreement on roads which are failing to move foodstuffs and perishables. The C. and O. is not party to any such agreement. It is meeting every demand of its shippers and the minute it fails to it will do something about it."

Customers Lack Money

At Denver, one large meat dealer said his business was off "about 30 per cent." He said customers apparently did not have the money to meet high prices. However, he said he would refuse to lower the quality of his meat. Tonnage volume was off about 20 per cent for the last 90 days. However, dollars and cents volume remained the same, tending to support the claim made by Bromann in Chicago.

Chain store managers in Detroit said business there was dropping off "slightly." One estimate placed the drop at "five per cent."

Church Guild Has Travel Tour Party

A dinner and program in the form of a travel tour was held by members of the Women's guild of the First Evangelical and Reformed church Thursday night at the church. Following the dinner there was a short business session with Miss Dora Jacobs, president of the guild, presiding. Mrs. G. G. Nuetzel was speaker for the evening and gave a talk on "The Background of India."

A prayer hymn, written by Mrs. Martha Reardon, preceded the dinner. To carry out the travel theme the members were seated at tables to represent countries and states in which there are mission fields. Talks on the work were given by several of the members. Seated with members at the Ohio table were Mrs. Edith Welch and Mrs. Leona Howser, and at the table representing Missouri Mrs. Dessie Bayles gave the Scripture and Mrs. Opal Gabler talked on the Ozarks and Caroline mission. Mrs. William Warner and members of the Girls' guild, in costume, designated the Hawaiian Islands and Mrs. Florence Haberman gave a talk on Honduras. South America was designated by Mrs. E. H. Wterth, Africa by Mrs. Lois Augenstein, China by Miss Lillian Plack, Iraq by Mrs. Dorothy Klehm and India by Miss Mary Queen. Covers were placed for more than 60. The program closed with prayer by Mrs. Minnie Hurr and the singing of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" by the group. The members will meet for a Christmas program Dec. 3.

UAW ASKS CONFAB ON PENSION SYSTEM

By The United Press

DETROIT, Sept. 6—The CIO Auto Workers union announced today that General Motors Corporation has been asked to open talks on a pension plan for 250,000 production workers.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said such discussions were permitted under terms of the two-year contract signed last spring which gave production workers the pattern 15-cents hourly pay boost.

Reuther sought then to open talks on a pension program in line with a January statement of policy by the giant union that it would seek such social security for all of its 800,000 members of only Ford Motor Company has offered the UAW a comprehensive retirement program.

"At the time of our March negotiations, corporation spokesmen said a pension plan was a new and complicated subject and that the parties were not equipped to deal with it intelligently without careful preparation," Reuther said in a letter to GM Vice President Harry W. Anderson. "We think it is none too soon to begin this preparation now."

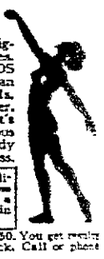

Reuther suggested appointment of a joint committee to lay the groundwork by collecting data on the GM workers, arguing that the federal social security wage payments of workers over 65 in Detroit were "pitifully inadequate."

Reuther's march bid for a pension plan for GM workers elapsed after a week of parleys and talks went on to cover wage increases and other issues with no further mention of pensions.

Ford workers will begin balloting Sept. 14 on whether they want the package wage increase without a pension plan, or retirement benefits and a seven-cent hourly pay boost.

Marion Cubs Whipped By Muncie Again, 3-1

Special to The Star

MUNCIE, Sept. 6—The Muncie Packers won the fourth and final game of the series here last night, 3-1 from Marion in a game featured by superb pitching and sparkling fielding by both teams.

The Packers swept the series from the Cubs three out of four. The Cubs move on to Richmond for a single game tonight.

Jim Sabens went all the way for Marion and gave up eight hits while the Cubs collected but three safeties — all singles — off two Muncie twirlers. Joe Nuxhall started for the home club but was removed in the fifth because of wildness.

Post Gets Win

Eddie Post, who relieved Nuxhall, received credit for the win, his seventeenth, against eight losses. Post was batted out in the first inning in the Thursday night game but stopped Marion in their tracks last night.

When Post took over for Nuxhall Marion had the bases crammed the result of a single by Roy Hollingshead and walks issued to John Smith and Dwight Maxhimer. Wally Rasmussen, first man to face the new hurler, lined to Tom Florence at short who relayed to Howard Locke at second to erase Smith in a double killing.

Manager Nelson Burbrink hit a short pop fly into right field. Running at top speed and with his back to the infield Locke hauled it down to retire the side.

Muncie Scores First

Muncie scored its first run in the opening inning when Locke and Foster walked, the former coming home on Bob Montag's single to right. Marion tied it in the fourth on a stroli to Rasmussen two wild pitches by Cy Nuxhall and Bob Shuford's single to left field.

In the Packer seventh Florence hit a line drive off Sabens pitching hand but was nipped at first on the play by Hollingshead. However the blow weakened the Marion pitcher as Foster followed with a double and scored when Montag hit a single.

Muncie added another marker in the eighth when Francis Shank was safe at first on an error by Jim Forbes, moved around to third on Ed Post's single and scored when Locke hit to left field.

Richmond, Lima Iron Men Hurl 15-Inning Duel

By The Associated Press

Two iron men of the Ohio State league each hurled 15 innings last night before newcomer Nick Coughlin of the Richmond Roses was credited with the 6-5 victory. Dick Strahs of the Lima Terriers was the other iron man.

The Roses took both ends of the doubleheader at Richmond, winning the opener, 7-6.

The victories came as Bob Verrier doubled with the bases loaded in the opener and singled when they were filled in the 15th of the nightcap.

Coughlin, who arrived at Richmond Sunday from the Western Association (class D) was almost too certain of victory in the 10th of the nightcap when he singled to center with a man on third.

He turned to the bench before touching first and was ruled out when the alert Lima team played on the initial sack.

Dayton and Newark split the other O.S.L. doubleheader.

Newark was blanked 4-0 in the first game as Dayton's Leslie gave only three hits in seven frames.

Newark took the nightcap, 6-5, on the strength of Ed Fowler's double after Gene Main and Johnny Batt had singled in the ninth.

A 10th inning walk with the bases loaded brought disaster to the Zanesville Dodgers last night as they lost, 3-2, to Springfield's Giants. The Giants held a 2 to

OHIO STATE ELEVEN TO PRACTICE SIGNAL DRILLS, AIR ATTACK

Fesler Hopes Scrimmage in Rain Yesterday Got Fumbling Out of System.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 6—Signal drills marked the first Saturday practice of the Ohio State university football squad today as Coach Wesley Fesler planned to work the Buckeyes through two routine exercises.

Foregoing an intra-squad scrimmage, the new O.S.U. mentor mapped a program starting with the usual calisthenics, tackling and blocking drills before going into signal drills in the morning.

Pass offense and defense were stressed for the early afternoon with full speed plays against the dummies to follow.

Mike Cannavino, Cleveland junior halfback who pulled a right leg muscle in pre-season exercise, was not expected to be in uniform today. His return is anticipated early next week.

Fesler observed that yesterday's early practice on a rainswept field may help the squad get its fumbling done before the Missouri opener Sept. 27.

Quarterbacks had some trouble handling the ball from the T-formation during the drill marked by two thundershowers.

First player changes were made at the afternoon sessions.

Ollie Cline, fullback from Fredericktown, O., Dave Bonnie and Curly Morrison, Columbus ends, and Alex Verdova, two-year letterman halfback from Lakewood, O., moved up to the fourth division after a week review of spring practice fundamentals they missed.

Cline is back this fall from a two-year Army stint, and Morrison did not attend classes last spring.

Tommy Phillips, of Berea, who was bounced from left half to quarter and back all last season, was moved to the quarterback spot. Fesler said he'd probably remain there.

Dean Sensanbaugher of Uhrichsville pulled a tendon in his right leg, and Bob Demmel of Fremont stepped into the first string right halfback spot. Sensanbaugher may be out for several days.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting. Bruce Edwards, Dodgers—Knocked home three important Brooklyn runs in eighth and ninth innings with a single and double to assure Dodgers of 7-6 edge over Giants.

Pitching. Mickey Haeffner, Senators—Turned back league-leading New York Yankees, 3-2, with six hits, shutting them out until the ninth.

John Luginbuhl Shoots For Another Unbeaten Central Football Team

Big John Luginbuhl probably will need all the skill and experience he has gained from over 10 years of playing and coaching to pilot his Central Junior High school footballers to their second straight undefeated season.

Last year, with William "Pete" Howison as coach, the Centralmen romped to the city Junior high championship. But this season finds Howison as head coach at Harding and the City Junior High league a thing of the past.

The three city Junior highs—Central, Vernon and Edison—have joined schools from Galion and Bucyrus to form the Tri-City league. The new setup naturally will mean tougher going for all local Junior high teams and Luginbuhl, who was named to the Central coaching spot only a few weeks ago, will have to maintain his charges in fine playing trim all season long if he expects to keep the records unblemished over a two-season span.

Luginbuhl is a native of Bluffton, O., where he remained throughout his high school and college days. He played an end position for the Bluffton High grid team, pitched on the baseball nine and got in "a little basketball."

Important College Role

He entered Bluffton college in the fall of 1937, a few months after graduation from high school, and soon had an important role in the collegiate athletic picture. He was a varsity end at Bluffton for three years, again played some basketball and was first-line pitcher for the college baseball team.

John's first taste of coaching was in basketball. He coached the Bluffton Junior High cage team during his junior and senior years in college.

After getting his degree at Bluffton in 1941, Luginbuhl went to Ohio Northern for a few months of graduate study in physical education. Then came his first fullfledged coaching assignment, that as head basketball, baseball and track mentor at Chatfield High in Crawford county.

In Coast Guard

John coached at Chatfield until June, 1942, when he joined the United States Coast Guard. He saw over three years of active duty, including many months aboard ship in the Pacific. He was discharged in October, 1945, when the rate of sonarman, second class. His main job was to detect the presence of submarines in the vicinity of his ship.

After discharge, Luginbuhl returned to Chatfield High, where he remained until last season. His Chatfield trackmen won the Crawford county tournament in 1946.

JOHN LUGINBUHL

Luginbuhl comes to Central as head football, basketball and track coach. He will also teach seventh grade mathematics.

He has completed about one-third of the work necessary for a master's degree in physical education at Ohio State.

Luginbuhl and his wife make their home at 311 East Walnut street. His wife will teach at Pearl street school this year.

John is a personal friend of William O. "Bill" Williams, former Harding High football coach, who is now grid mentor at University School in Columbus. Williams is also a Bluffton alumnus.

Luginbuhl speaks highly of the new Football Betterment Program for Marion schools. He believes it is a "good project which I personally don't think can miss, if the public will give their support. And I think they will."

CLEVELAND BROWNS TAKE BUFFALO, 30-14 IN OPENING START

Chet Mutryn Makes Coach Regret He Sold Him to Bills, However.

By FRITZ HOWELL
AP Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6 — Coach Paul E. Brown's Cleveland Browns were off and running after their second straight All-America conference grid championship today, but the boss of the pro loop's top team admitted:

"It looks like I made a mistake when I let that Chet Mutryn get away."

The Browns battled the Buffalo Bills into submission, 30-14, last night, but Mutryn, who was with the Browns a year ago, turned up as the game's No. 1 ground gainer—for Buffalo.

Mutryn carried the ball a dozen times for 114 yards, and returned kickoffs for another 81 yards, to snare the pigskin toting laurels in the see-saw contest.

The Browns, versatile and powerful in all angles of the game, romped to four touchdowns in the first half, while holding the Bills from Buffalo without a tally.

There the superiority of the champs ended, however, as the invaders came back for two touchdowns in the third session, outplaying the Browns badly. The Browns didn't hit pay dirt again until the game was within six seconds of the finish, when Lou (The Toe) Groza lofted a three-pointer over the uprights from the 17 yard line.

The Browns traded Mutryn to the Bills early in the campaign, but Brown was a bit upset as a result.

"That's once I guessed wrong," he said. "That guy is a whale of a ball carrier, and we could use him. If he'd been on our side it would have been a rout."

Cards Face Tough Job In Overtaking Dodgers

By The Associated Press

St. Louis settles down for a 17-game home stand today, faced with the back-breaking task of overcoming a seven-game Brooklyn lead.

Seven games behind Brooklyn with 24 to play, Eddie Dyer's never-say-die Cards have three engagements with Cincinnati before the eastern clubs come in for a 10-game visit. Then they wind up the home stay with Chicago before visiting Pittsburgh and Chicago in the final days of the season.

Over the season play, the Red Birds have played consistent .633 ball at home, winning 38 and losing 22. Brooklyn away from home has a 33-28 won and lost record, not too far behind St. Louis' home performance.

Must Sweep Clean

As matters stand today, after Brooklyn's 7-6 nod over New York yesterday afternoon, the Cardinals must figure on a clean sweep of next week's important series with the Brooks or call it quits.

Any combination of 16 Dodger wins or St. Louis defeats can clinch the flag.

Despite a three-run first inning at the expense of rookie Larry Jansen, whose 10-game win streak was broken, the Dodgers had to come from behind to down the Giants yesterday. Dixie Walker's first-inning homer with a man on helped the Brooks to a good start but the Giants pecked away at Hank Behrman with seven hits in four innings, including Willard Marshall's 34th homer in the third, and finally took the lead against reliefer Joe Hatten in the fifth.

Rookie Phil Haugstad, making his second appearance since he was brought up from St. Paul, was credited with his first big league win on a two-inning job. Bruce Edwards' single drove in the tying run and he scored the tally that put the Dodgers out front in the eighth. Again in the ninth, Edwards' double drove home two runs that barely sufficed when Johnny Mize unlimbered home run No. 45 off Hugh Casey with Buddy Kerr on base in the ninth.

Boston Edges Up

Boston took another bite out of the Phillies, moving to within 2½ games of second place behind the six-hit pitching of lefty Warren Spahn who recorded his 17th win over Dutch Leonard, 2-1.

The four western National league clubs were not scheduled.

Washington pitching continued to bother the front-running New York Yankees who, with a 12-game lead, now need only any combination of 11 wins or Boston defeats to apply the clincher in the American league.

Mickey Haefner shut out the series-bound Yankees until the ninth and survived a two-run rally to earn a 3-2 victory, his ninth.

The Athletics and Red Sox did some feuding and fighting in in Shibe park before the Philadelphia club picked up a 9-7 decision. Ted Williams, after walking away from the plate thinking he had struck out, hammered his 28th homer in the ninth.

Ferris Fain, A's first sacker, was banished for swinging a couple of haymakers at Eddie Pellagrini in the seventh inning and Manager Joe Cronin was thumbed out for protesting too loudly to Umpire Eddie Rommel.

Ken Keltner's three-run homer off Joe Haynes enabled Al Gettel to win No. 10 for Cleveland by a 6-1 margin over Chicago.

Detroit and St. Louis were not scheduled.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 — Two years ago when Bruno Betzel piloted the Montreal Royals to their first International league pennant in 10 years, he figured he deserved a raise. He didn't get it and next season he switched to managing the Jersey City Giants....This season, with a rather nondescript lineup which looked hopeless at the start of the season, Bruno's little Giants chased the Royals right down to the wire.... In midseason, Montreal had been so far ahead that the race looked like a walkover, but once Jersey City started moving things got so stirred up that once Bruno once offered his players $1,000 out of his own pocket if they beat out Montreal. League Prexy Shag Shaughnessy vetoed that offer as contrary to the rules, but it shows you what the guy will do to win. Any major league club needing a new 1948 manager, might do worse than contact B. Betzel. He still could use the raise.

* * *

The Louisiana State U. publicity department claims that halfback Jim Cason is the "most ambidextrous" (whatever that is) football player in history....Jim can pass or kick from either side but prefers the left foot and right hand. In baseball he fields righthanded and bats lefty. He swings a tennis racquet and golf club from opposite sides, eats right handed and writes left handed....Sounds as if the guy had a split personality.

RAIL STRIKE COSTING 8,000 CARS PER DAY

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 6 — New efforts were made today to settle a wildcat rail strike which Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation said is causing loss of enough steel to make 8,000 automobiles a day.

Settlement attempts were spearheaded by representatives of two railroad brotherhoods dispatched from Cleveland in an effort to get the 1,800 operating employes of the union railroad back on the job. The railroad transports materials to and from big Pittsburgh mills of the steel firm.

The railroaders, who struck yesterday, are members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The strike was called unauthorized by both the national mediation board at Washington and A. F. Whitney, of Cleveland, president of the BRT.

The workers were reported to be seeking a 50-cents-an-hour pay increase package, including the costs of four-weeks vacations for 20-year-men, and other contract changes.

While railroad brotherhood representatives conferred with officials of the union railroad for six hours last night, Carnegie-Illinois quickly scaled its basic operations down to zero point. Mills employing 35,000 were affected.

C. R. Cox, president of the steel corporation, said in a statement the walkout is causing loss of about 16,000 tons of finished products daily — equivalent to the amount of steel he said is needed for 8,000 automobiles.

Like Carnegie-Illinois, the union railroad is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corp.

Declining Trend in Milk Prices Reversed in July

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6—A seven-month decline in the prices paid Ohio farmers for their milk was reversed in July when fluid markets paid 27 cents a hundredweight more than in June. The price averaged $3.84 a hundredweight.

Manufacturing plants paid an average of $3.13, 16 cents over the June level but 43 cents under July 1946. The fluid milk price was 11 cents under that of a year ago.

The monthly dairy report of the federal and state agriculture departments showed a seasonal decrease of 15 million pounds in the amount of milk received by fluid markets to a total of 190 million pounds. Manufacturing plants received 192 million pounds a drop of 11 million.

FARM RESEARCH PLANNED

By The Associated Press

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 6—A farm research center is to be established at Brecksville, O., late this year, John L. Collyer of Akron, O., president of B. F. Goodrich Company, said last night in an address at the General Electric Company radio farm forum.

Acron, a Greek physician, is reputed to have originated fumigation in 473 B. C., when he halted a plague in Athens by burning aromatics in great fires.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

KATHARINE'S optimistic assurance cheered me immeasurably, for I know she never promises anything lightly. If she ever errs, it is in being too conservative.

For the first time, I felt at ease about Mary; was sure that I would be able to succeed in my task of coaxing her memory to function again, for that really was my sole task. Dramatically, Mary needed nothing from me.

"Did Dr. Twitchell respond satisfactorily to your Machiavellian scheme?" I asked.

"You mean yours," she said, wrinkling her nose at me. "Oh, yes, most satisfactorily! Indeed, you might say he lapped it up. I'm beginning to believe the old Doc has a yen to stage himself in a conspiratorial role. He's going to see Mary promptly at five, and he's going to telephone this apartment about four-fifteen, and give me the lowdown of when and where to see him.

"So," she went on, "play your cards accordingly. I'm going to be conspicuous by my absence from your memory refresher course with Mary. But I want you to see that she is especially absorbed in study by four-fifteen. I'll be in here at that hour, ready to listen to the darling old Doc's telephone message."

A Question

"Suppose she gets tired," I said, "and wants to rest at that particular time?"

"But she won't," Katharine averred with emphasis. "I shall interrupt you at two-thirty, give her a rubdown and another of my special doses. She'll rest or sleep until three-thirty, when I'll let her get up—awaken her if she's still asleep; it won't hurt her—and then she'll be sure to be wide awake and absorbed in her lines by four-fifteen."

"As usual, you've thought of everything," I told her admiringly, and then we heard the little bell which Katharine had placed within reach of Mary's hand when she found her patient had gone to sleep.

"If you wish, you may order her luncheon now," Katharine said. "I'll get her ready for food—physical and mental."

"What about your luncheon, and mine?" I asked.

Wants Large Lunch

"Have 'em all up at the same time," she said. "I don't know about you, but if you order a pitfling lunch for me, like the one on which Mary insisted, I'll murder you before night. Two eggs, or their equivalent in any form that's most appetizing on the menu, a nice slice of bacon, some fruit juice, a pot of strong tea, whichever dessert on the menu sounds most scrumptous, and some of those special rolls they do so well here. Me, I'm hungry!"

"You should be," I told her smiling. "It's been a long time since breakfast, and you've been on the go constantly."

"I've had nothing on you," she retorted, with an affectionate little moue at me.

"Oh, I'll confess to being hungry, too," I told her. "Indeed, I'm going to duplicate your luncheon order for myself. Will it be too much for Mary if Dicky can manage things so as to lunch with us?

Will Do Her Good

"No, indeed, it will do her good," she said quickly. "As I told you before, any normal pursuits for Mary, now, are better than medicine. The only thing of which I am afraid is that she'll take herself too far out on a limb with this studying of her lines."

"I guess it's true that eavesdroppers never hear anything good of themselves," Mary said gaily, from the doorway of the bedroom. "And, knowing you two, I know you're not worrying about either the limb or my perch upon it. You'll haul me down mit leedle ropes und vire if I get stubborn!"

I caught my breath in relieved thankfulness that I had not uttered aloud the assurance I was about to give Katharine that Mary would not know how many new lines I was writing until the nurse herself gave me the signal to go ahead with her studying at full speed.

But Katharine was placid in speech and demeanor.

Will Ride Herd

"Don't worry, little girl! We'll ride herd on you," she said. "But just now, your aunt is going to order our luncheons, and I'm going to get you ready for the feast—or rather, the famine which your order for luncheon spells."

"Famine!" Mary jeered. "You should have seen me in the good old days! If I had a cup of tea and a cracker, I thought I was stuffed."

"Which was one of the things that ailed you," Katharine returned in matter-of-fact tones, as she shepherded her into the bedroom, while I went to the telephone to call up Dicky, thankful that Mary had not heard my mention of his name. I did not want her to be disappointed if he could not join us at luncheon.

But when I heard his voice, my mind was at ease, for he was in the jubilant mood which is always his when a job is well done.

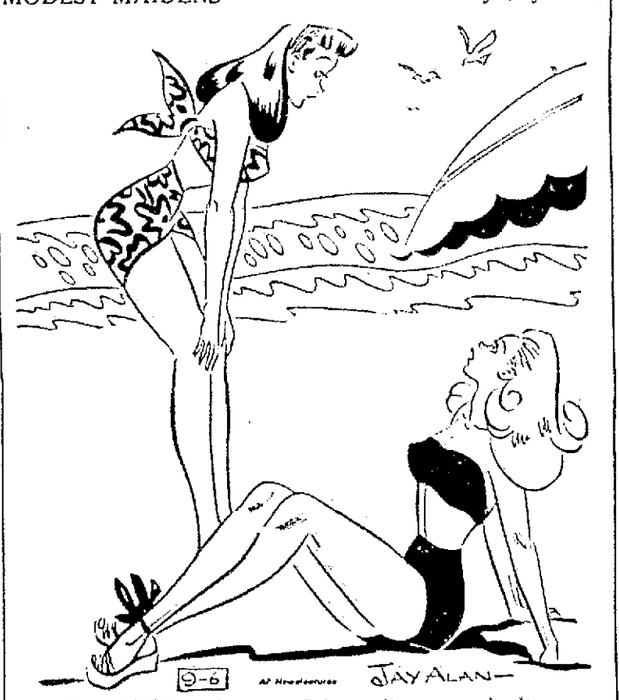

"Your timing is perfect," he said, when he answered the telephone and heard my voice. "I just finished this blasted thing, and have telephoned for a messenger."

"Oh, Dicky!" I said breathlessly. "May I see it before you send it off?"
